WHAT'S WRONG?

What's the matter with our legislative bodies?

Disparaging remarks morning after morning tell of demands for action both in Congress and in the legislature of our own state.

TIRED OF THEM

President Roosevelt gave out the word that his "must" program should be put through with all possible dispatch and his spokesman in the lower house, Congressman Byrns, told his colleagues that the country viewed Congress with distrust and suspicion and would welcome the day when it adjourned.

At home, Senator Rich informed the legislature that little had been done in the way of passing the major or revenue measures and if necessary Saturday, Sunday and night sessions would be held to speed up action.

It was not so many years ago that a paper became famous by blazoning across its front page: "Thank God, Congress Has Adjourned."

There is no question but that there is too much dawdling by law-making bodies with the result that there is a hurry and rush in the final days of the session to jam through bills. In consequence we have much ill-advised and in instances vicious legislation.

INEXCUSABLE DELAY

There is some excuse for the apportionment commission by the California legislature. It sat and twiddled its thumbs for a month waiting for the governor to present his fiscal program. Since then it has become embroiled over taxation measures, urged by various groups.

30-HOUR WORK BILL DEFEATED

SACRAMENTO, April 17.—UP—Amid accusations that members were "traitors" to the Democratic and Republican platform promises, the Assembly today defeated 47 to 26 the 30-hour short-work bill and definitely killed any hope of passage of 30-hour work legislation this session.

Defeat of the measure sponsored by the Epic-Democratic bloc climaxed a long and bitter debate, during which Assemblyman William Moseley Jones, accused opponents of trying to "mend the bill to death" rather than face the problem directly.

His charge was made after amendments had been adopted exempting agricultural workers, workers connected with the fishing industry and hospital workers from terms of the short work requirements.

The bill, one of the most drastic of its kind introduced would have provided a 30-hour week for most types of labor and required payment of $1.50 per hour for work over the weekly limit. A 48-hour work week would have been required for agricultural workers in the original bill.

When it became evident that the bill would be beaten, Assemblyman John Pelletier, firey Los Angeles Democrat, called attention of members to the fact that a 30-hour week was one of the planks in both Democratic and Republican platforms.

LEAGUE READY TO FIGHT GERMAN MOVES

NAZIS ARE CONDEMNED BY COUNCIL

GENEVA, April 17.—UP—League of Nations council tonight believed the Council, in approving a resolution condemning Germany's lone repudiation of the Versailles treaty, served notice that League members would fight if the Reich violated the Rhineland demilitarized zone by fortifying and reinforcing the area.

The major powers, anticipating that Adolf Hitler's next rearmament move may be fortification of the Rhineland, inserted a veiled phrase in the resolution adopted by the Council today, making the League itself guarantee the sanctity of the demilitarized zone, as well as other provisions of the peace treaty.

TO AID FRANCE

Great Britain, France and Italy, sponsors of the resolution, discreetly called attention to the importance of the phrase saying repudiation of the treaties, endangering security and peace, entails "all appropriate measures on the part of League members, within the framework of the covenant."

This is interpreted as a direct allusion to military and economic sanctions (penalties) under article 16 of the Covenant. Italy and Britain already had reaffirmed their Locarno obligations to aid France if Germany violates the demilitarized zone—but the resolution now

SLAVE RING IN S.F. IS CHARGED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—UP—A ring of Chinese has been bringing an average of 50 Chinese girls a year into the United States through San Francisco for immoral purposes. Federal agents charged today.

A. J. Zirpoli, deputy U. S. attorney, preparing for re-trial of a Chinatown merchant, his wife and two other women on charges of illegally importing a slave girl from Hongkong, said investigation revealed the traffic involved ramifications extending to the Atlantic seaboard.

A jury disagreed in first trial of four persons now held.

Zirpoli disclosed that a new government witness will be Lee Choy Ching, whom he said, had been apprehended March 16 in Salinas and since held in secrecy. She said she had been brought into the United States through Seattle two years ago and sold into vice for $5,000, the attorney reported.

A third girl, Lee Gin Cook has been sought, but has not yet been found, Zirpoli said.

Announcement was made of the pow-wow to be held at Alvarado Park on the night of April 26. A picnic dinner will be served at 6:30 and at 7 o'clock various stunts will be exhibited by the boys.

Other routine business matters were discussed.

11 INJURED IN RIOTS IN CANADA MINE

SEATTLE, April 17.—UP—Ship, plane, lumber and coal mine strikes spread from the Mexican border into Western Canada tonight as the powerful Maritime Federation of the Pacific grasped the tattered shreds of labor unrest at its Seattle conference, attempting to unify the action for peace or war of 37,000 sea workers.

Violence flared in British Columbia's coal mines when a mob of 250 strikers, spurred on by their workfolk, attacked a detachment of Provincial police guarding the collieries of the Corbin mines at Corbin.

ELEVEN KURT

Eleven constables were injured, one seriously, before the strikers were beaten back.

Police did not use firearms, although attacked with rocks, hammers and clubs. They infuriated miners failed to reach strike-breakers.

MUM ON STRIKE

Beatings and bombings marked heightened tension in the five-week old strike of the International Seamen's Union against oil tankers. Rewards of $1,000 were offered in Seattle and Portland for capture of the bombers who wrecked service stations.

The Maritime Federation did not get around to an expression today on the tanker strike. It decided to seek elimination of Asiatics from crews of American ships, and worked on a constitution of widespread import. The constitution would provide for majority action of the 26 unions on the tanker.

New Deal, Huey Long Start War On Relief

WASHINGTON, April 17.—UP—The New Deal tonight accepted Senator Huey P. Long's "declaration of war against the United States."

Administration officials were represented as determined to continue to direct expenditure of all government money sent into the State, or shut off the supply.

THREATS BY LICKES

Public Works Administrator Harry I. Lickes threatened to rescind Federal construction allotment if Long's proposed legislation is enacted into law.

Relief Administrator Harry I. Hopkins already has taken steps to prevent any of his unemployment aid money from reaching Long.

ENEMY NAMED

He appointed Frank Peterson, Long's political enemy, to the post of Louisiana State Relief Director and ordered that he, personally, direct expenditure of all FERA money in the State.

The Long-New Deal controversy is expected to reach its climax here Monday when the senator returns to Congress with the axes of intention of attacking "The Brain-Trust Cabinet" and "black-back ticks."

GIVEN SUPPORT

Both Lickes and Hopkins were believed to have been given the explicit support of President Roosevelt in their anti-Long moves.

Lickes countered with the Civil Executive, for 30 minutes yesterday soon after he had characterized the senator as "The Emperor of Louisiana," ridiculed his State-wealth program and threatened to rescind $57,000,000 in PWA

PLANE SETS RECORD FOR OCEAN HOP

HONOLULU, April 17.—UP—Its objective reached with magnificent ease, Pan American Airways huge Clipper plane today roared into Honolulu to complete the first commercial air flight in history between California and Hawaii.

Looming out of mists and rain, the Clipper, "Lipault sunshine" on 5,000 cheering watchers, the Clipper, 19-ton flying boat, coasted to a perfect landing at 10:21 A. M. P. S. T. in Pearl Harbor.

NEW RECORD

It had established a new speed record for the 2,400-mile crossing, despite the fact Captain Edwin C. Musick, and his crew of five men flew in wide circles above the harbor for more than half an hour after first sighting the island.

The plane reached Pearl Harbor after 17 hours, 41 minutes elapsed time from Alameda, Calif., where it soared away at 3:50 P. M. Tuesday afternoon. It landed after 18 hours and 21 minutes flying time, six hours better than the former California to Hawaii record of 24 hours, 48 minutes established by six navy seaplanes last year.

ROUTINE FLIGHT

In Hawaii, and to aviation interests, the new speed record was only incidental to the fact that after a year of effort Honolulu had been linked with the mainland by air.

In contrast to the adventurous flights of past years, which claim record of 10 lives, the Clipper's passage

The decision eventually reached was to turn the investigation over to the district attorney and if he found evidence that the law had been violated then the matter would be given official consideration by the body.

Judge Thompson was unable to furnish the grand jury with the names of those whom he charged with law violation and the names.

ROOSEVELT KEEPS MUM ON MEASURE

WASHINGTON, April 17.—UP—Strong opposition to the Administration's efforts to compromise on the bonus issue developed tonight as veterans' leaders attacked the new Harrison bill in the Senate.

Milo Warner, vice-commander of the American Legion, studied the measure carefully and said it was "absolutely not acceptable to the Legion." An analysis of the Harrison proposal was telegraphed to Frank Belgrano, national commander, who is expected to oppose it.

ROOSEVELT IS MUM

President Roosevelt refused to comment, although he had been represented as willing to sign the bill.

Despite the first flurry of antagonism from veterans' leaders, Chairman Pat Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the Senate finance committee, planned to rush hearings on his bill so that it may be placed before the upper chamber next week.

INVITE VETERANS

Heads of veterans' organizations, officials of the Treasury and Veterans Bureaus and some critics of any plan to pay the bonus before it is due in 1945, have been invited to testify. The bonus bill will take precedence over the revised NRA measure.

If favorably reported by the Finance committee, Harrison said he could offer his bill as a substitute for the Patman bonus measure passed by the House several weeks ago. The Harrison bill differs sharply from the Patman proposal and the Mississippi Senator said tonight his plan would not cause the imposition of new taxes nor lead to monetary inflation.

ROOSEVELT KEEPS MUM ON MEASURE

GREENBACK BILL.

The Patman bill simply authorizes and directs the Administration to put its process to work and turn out $2,300,000,000 in non-interest bearing treasury notes or "greenbacks" to pay off the bonds. It is one of the most ambitious currency inflation proposals submitted to Congress.

Harrison's recommendations are less simple but also less inflationary. Under his bill the date of maturity of the adjusted service certificates would be moved up to 1938 and the certificates dated 1918 increased to 1927. The holder of a certificate would be given the option of cashing it in immediately at its cash surrender value, or exchanging it for a government bond bearing three per cent interest, or of his certificate until 1945.

COST LESS.

Under the Patman plan would be $1,000,000, Harrison said his proposal would cost half a billion dollars less. Stripped of its technical phrases, the Harrison bill would operate in this manner:

John Smith has a $1,000 adjusted service certificate and he needs cash badly. He applies to the Veterans' Administration and hands over his certificate. He is given a government bond for approximately $750 which he may cash at once. He has no further claim upon the government as the $750 represents the actual value of his $1,000 certificate on the day he surrenders it.

KEEP BOND.

If Smith's economic condition improves and he does not have to cash the bond, he can keep it and collect the interest coupons. The length of time these bonds are to remain in circulation is left to the discretion of the Treasury.

Although the certificates would mature in 1938, Smith could convert them to gold by 1935, if he desired. Instead of $1,000 he would receive about $1,115 which represents the face value of the paper, plus compounded interest at four per cent.

EL CERRITO NEWS

SCRIBE INSPECTS NEW CHINESE BOYS' HOME

Wednesday being one of those rare spring days that make you feel like you could move mountains, we took a walk up to the Chung Mei Home, feeling that "our little" as the movie queens say, would be interested in knowing something about its progress.

It is just at the stage where the inside of it looks like a child's painting. We have, on and off, for many hours, looking at colored paintings, trying to fathom their meaning and wondering why we could experience the slightest reaction to their supposed beauty, especially as others seemed to see something in them. From now on, we shall understand them. They are something that isn't anything, yet but that will be something some day.

So with the Chung Mei Home. From the outside it looks nearly finished but the inside is a madhouse of plasters, plasterers, roofers, carpenters, and so on, all jammed up together.

Still there is beauty in its well proportioned rooms and from the moment you pass beneath the two dragons and between the two massive pillars that form the main south opening, you feel that here will be order and harmony when the workmen have completed their task, and the gravel, sand, cement and lumber have been cleaned away.

The place seems much larger when you walk around it and go inside, than it does when seen from San Pablo avenue and from the west and south elevations up there, the view of the bay and the city of San Francisco is magnificent.

An inquirer of Dr. Shepherd, superintendent of the Home, the meaning of what we took to be Chinese characters, surmounting the dragons at the entrance. He referred us to a Chinese gentleman of learning who went with us to see them, but upon investigation they were found not to be Chinese characters at all but only conventionalized designs having somewhat the appearance of Chinese letters or word signs. It is too bad they are not genuine Chinese ideographs. They would be much more interesting if they were.

Within a month or six weeks the Home should be about ready for its orphan occupants, who doubtless will enjoy the big airy classrooms, gymnasium, bath, dining halls and cozy rooms and comfortable dormitories.

The staff kitchen, dining hall, living and sleeping rooms are about complete and will be extremely attractive.

KIDDIES WILL HUNT GOLDEN GOOSE SUNDAY

No one kills the goose that lays the golden egg. That story, it seems, was all a mistake because every Easter Sunday the golden egg is up at City Hall where it serves as the grand prize for the kiddie who finds the most eggs at the annual egg hunt staged by the El Cerrito Fire Department. So all this long, long while the Fire Department must have had that fabled bird stashed away somewhere up around the fire hall. How else could there be a golden goose egg every year?

EMPEROR JONES IS DISTINGUISHED CAT

We had a very pleasant visit yesterday with Emperor Jones, a distinguished visitor who arrived in El Cerrito some three weeks ago. He lives at 1212 San Pablo avenue, and his little hide is as black as coal and twice as shiny. You see, he is the son of Zulu and Simba, a pair of Mrs. Frances Exley's blue ribbon Persian cats. And he has two little yellow brothers, but they have not half the charm that the fat little Emperor Jones has. We fell quite in love with him.

and block until things seemed to be in a state of equilibrium. The conflicting schools of thought in the committee, both of which are in the methods of raising the money to be used in the state's public works, and the details of the program, were not noted.

LIMITATION METHOD

If the bill is passed, the money could be restricted to a program of making up and repairing a bridge within a limited time. We would all give a wish of relief. The fact is the main consideration of the bill and other matters proposed and adopted by the committee could be cast into the discard to our peace of mind and the betterment of our pocketbooks.

IT MIGHT WORK

And while on the subject of public works, I have had a number of the Colorado State Department in the P. L. A. whist, and noticed a play, "Baby Face" with a good deal of interest.

"Baby Face" is a comedy in three acts, concerning the combination in which two little hickies become involved after adopting a baby. The baby turns out to be 19 years old and very pretty and in the final act marries one of her "adopted" uncles.

The remarkable thing about the author is that he had no experience in dramatics before entering the hospital, and the audience seemed more responsive than persons outside the hospital walls who are somewhat of an insouciant.

From some of the colored comedies it has been my unfortunate experience lately I am deeply impressed with the fact that the Colorado youth, man, now that he has done a good job, should be handled and some of our play writers sent to this school for training, then bringing about a much needed improvement in the productions that are inflicted upon us.

DON'T RAISE HOGS

Some things are so good that they deserve to be passed along, and here is one of them—

Said to have been received by a Boston bond house, it arrived the Secretary of Agriculture Wallace who publicly denounced it as a "terrible error" loss.

"Dear Sir: Mr. Blank at Northampton, has a friend who received a government check for $1,000 this year for not raising hogs. So Blank now proposes to get a farm and go into the business of not raising hogs; says in fact, not raising hogs appeals to him very strongly.

"Of course, he will need a hired man, and that is where I come in. I write you as to your opinion of the best kind of farm not to raise hogs on, the best strain of hogs not to raise, and how best to keep an inventory of the hogs you are not raising.

"His friend who got the thousand dollars got it for not raising 500 hogs; now we figure we might easily not raise 1,500 or even 2,000 hogs, so you see the possible profits are only limited by the number of hogs we do not raise.

"P. S. His friend who received the $1,000 check has been hog raising for 40 years and the most he ever made was $400 a year. Kind of pathetic to think how he wasted his life raising hogs, when not raising them would have been so much more profitable."

BYRON ROGGE, Inc., April 17.—Overriding a protest that "this is a declaration of war against the United States," the House of the Louisiana Legislature today passed Senator Huey Long's bill making control of all Federal relief money coming into the State.

Secretary of Interior Ickes in Washington has warned Louisiana that rather than turn over Federal money to Long's dictatorship, he would withdraw all relief from the State.

It is estimated that Louisiana's share in the $489,000,000 Federal relief fund is $170,000,000, enough all it does to declare war on the to relieve the plight of thousands United States," he shouted.

LAURA INGALLS TAKES OFF ON CALIFORNIA HOP

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 17.—UP—Laura Ingalls (Gibbs) was enroute here (to California) from where she took off early yesterday in a vain attempt to establish a new transcontinental non-stop flight record.

Mrs. Ingalls' intended destination was San Francisco, where she was to meet the outlandish woman aviator in 1931, left the Municipal airport here today at 2:50 p. m.

Dust clouds which have plagued the west for more than a month forced the woman flier to abandon her flight yesterday. After flying as far as Wichita, Kan., the aviator was forced to retrace her route. She became lost, due to the failure of her radio beacon compass, and the blinding dust clouds, and missed the airport here.

Following the southern tip of the Rocky Mountains, she followed the range until she saw the airport at Alamogordo, Colo., where she landed. Flight and early this morning Mrs. Ingalls was refreshed by a restful night, and a mechanic inspected her low-winged "Vendetta" monoplane. After minor repairs she flew directly to Albuquerque and landed at 11:50 a. m.

HEARING HELD ON DISPUTE OF FRUIT GROWERS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—UP—Arguments involving the distribution of $150,000 to California cling peach growers were taken under submission today by Superior Judge Timothy I. Fitzpatrick.

He announced that Tuesday he would advise the state peach control committee what steps should be taken to distribute the fund to growers who participated in the 1933 cling peach marketing agreement.

The agreement stipulated that 25 per cent of any increase in the price of canned cling peaches would be distributed at the close of the season to growers of No. 1 cling peaches.

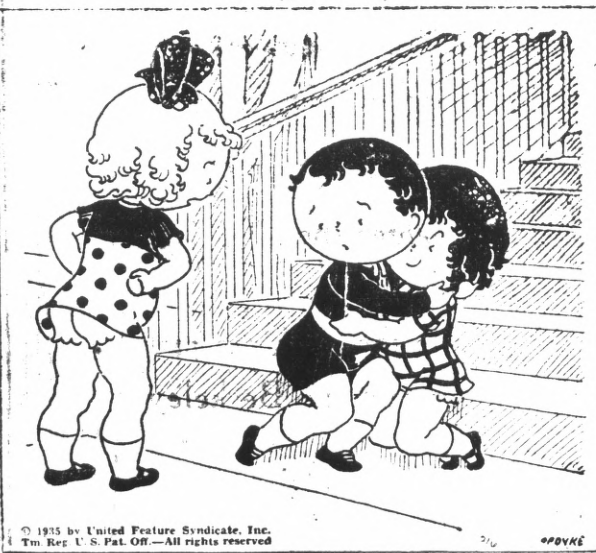

A review of the records at the close of the fiscal year July 31, 1934, revealed that the agreement and license did not specifically determine who was to receive the money.

Specific problems were whether a grower's cooperative which violated terms of the license should benefit, whether payment should be made to growers of mortgaged crops or to the mortgage holders, whether payments should be paid to growers or canners in the event of fixed price term contracts.

A friendly suit against the J. C. Kinsley packing company and others asked for a court interpretation to clear up the problem.

DOUBLE BILL WILL PLEASE FOX PATRONS

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen in "The Great Hotel Murder," and Zane Grey's latest western romance, "Home On the Range," with Jackie Coogan, Randolph Scott, and Evelyn Brent starred, are the two features opening at the Fox theatre tomorrow.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen portray new characters in this latest laugh-thriller, "The Great Hotel Murder."

Lowe is a smart, fashionably dressed, attractive mystery story author, who lives at a big downtown hotel, and delves into real murder mysteries as a sideline. McLaglen is the very earnest, but somewhat dumb, house detective, who is thoroughly sold on his own ability to ferret out murders. Then along comes a baffling murder, and the two rivals set on the scene and in each other's hair.

George Arliss in "The Iron Duke" and "Wedding Day's Child," starring Edward Arnold, Karen Morley, Frankie Thomas and Shirley Grey, are the two features comprising today's double program at the Fox.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.—UP—"All the dramatic schools in the world will not make an actor. Unless one is born with acting ability, no amount of training will develop it."

That is the judgment of Bette Davis, whose performance in "Of Human Bondage" forced the Film Academy to alter its 10-year-old rule against write-in candidates for Academy acting awards.

"Dramatic power," she continued, "is a capacity to put yourself into the character of other people and faithfully portray them. This is an artistic talent born in one, just as truly as the talent for becoming a poet or a musician is inherent."

"Of course, fine points can be developed, and characterization improved by experience, but these things do not make an actor unless he has the ability first. Any of our great actors or actresses, past or present, will affirm this contention."

On the other hand, there are many successes on the stage who never will be actors; who never could portray someone else. They are just themselves always—they are personalities, and succeed only because of this.

"I have heard some players argue that the ability to be readily sympathetic is a quality necessary for an actor. I thoroughly disagree. I believe that the most hard-boiled actor can make an audience weep. If he has real acting ability, he can put himself into the character which will draw sympathy without being himself of a sympathetic nature."

Fox Tomorrow

A WOMAN holds the key to the mystery which Edmund Lowe is a brainy sleuth, and Victor McLaglen as a brawny "dick" set out to solve, with mirthful results in their newest featured Fox Film picture "THE GREAT HOTEL MURDER."

WASHINGTON, April 17.—President Roosevelt made a personal telephone call to Senator Gerald Nye, chairman of the Munitions Investigating committee, the other morning at 9:15 o'clock. And there by hangs a most extraordinary tale.

At 10 a. m., Donald Richberg, head of the NRA, was scheduled to take the witness stand before the munitions committee to testify regarding the Colt Firearms Company, makers of machine guns and automatic revolvers.

Richberg had written several letters to the committee indicating great reluctance to testify. Reason for this reluctance was the fact that a strike has been in progress in the Colt plant for some weeks, and the National Labor Relations Board had held in favor of the workers, decreed that the Colt company was wrong. In accord with this, the NRA board snatched the Blue Eagle.

When a company loses the Blue Eagle, every department of the government automatically is notified in order that it may cease to do business with that firm.

GOVERNMENT PET
But in the case of the Colt Company, government departments were not notified. The War Department, which had placed various orders with the company, received no notice that Colt was violating NRA codes. In fact the munitions committee unearthed a letter signed by Secretary of War Dern stating that until the War Department was notified, he would continue to do business.

Unofficially, Secretary Dern knew that the Blue Eagle had been snatched. Officially, he did not know.

The Colt Company sets a large amount of its profits from the government. Government orders provide the difference between its profit and loss. The government pressure, therefore, probably could have settled the strike.

Yet for the first time in its history, notification of the Blue Eagle's removal was not sent out. Obviously, Donald Richberg had to do some explaining.

So 15 minutes before Richberg was to take the stand, Roosevelt telephoned Senator Nye. He asked Nye not to summon Richberg. Obviously it would have been embarrassing for the "Assistant President."

Senator Nye is not an ardent supporter of the NRA. He is also a bitter critic of the NRA. Finally he would like to run for the vice presidency on the Republican ticket. Nevertheless, he played ball with the President. He postponed Richberg's appearance before the Senate committee.

DEMOCRATIC EFFICIENCY
Representative Bertrand Snell is short and punchy, but when necessary he can display sprinter's speed on the come-back.

Recently he attended an informal social evening at the President held for members of the New York congressional delegation.

During the course of the evening Roosevelt turned to Snell and inquired:

"Bert, have you been following what they have been doing in Australia?"

"No, I haven't," replied the Republican floor-leader. "I've been too busy keeping an eye on what you Democrats are doing here."

Roosevelt joined in the laughter that greeted this sally and continued:

"Well, in Australia they don't call elections by that name anymore. Election day is now known as Citizens Day. As a result they get out 90 per cent of the vote."

"Huh, that's nothing," Mr. President, replied Snell. "Last year in Jack O'Connor's district in Brooklyn you Democrats polled 192 per cent of the vote. And up in Albany they recorded 115 per cent."

NOTE: Representative John O'Connor is Democratic chairman of the House rules committee and Albany is ruled by a powerful Democratic machine.

ANTI-LYNCHING
With some of their colleagues, Senators Wagner and Costigan have become the most unpopular members of Congress. Reason is their championship of the anti-lynching bill.

Especially in the border states, this bill is putting several senators on the spot. In Maryland, for instance, the eastern shore helped to defeat Governor Ritchie because he championed Negro victims of lynch mobs. At the same time, there is a large Negro electorate in Maryland.

Whenever way Maryland Senators vote they are on the spot. And Senators from various other states are in the same boat. As a result they are saying:

"Why did Costigan and Wagner want to bring this thing up anyway?"

As a defense, enemies of the Costigan-Wagner bill are preparing an argument that the bill interferes with the sovereignty of individual states to prosecute criminal acts within its borders.

NOTE: Senators Wagner and Costigan recently visited the White House, secured Roosevelt's pledge to back them in bringing a vote on the anti-lynching bill at this session.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, April 17.—Broadway playwrights break their necks trying to find original plots, when all the time new twists and inventions are to be found right in their own back yards.

Take the case of John Cecil Holm, who wrote the comedy hit, "Three Men On a Horse." When Holm was still an actor, he commuted daily from South Norwalk in quest of employment. While making the Broadway rounds, he occasionally stopped at the corner drug store for his midday lunch, and there heard the boys discourse on the respective merits of the ponies.

Instead of reading more lofty literature on his ride back to the farm country, Holm was interested enough to buy a racing form and, with no particular knowledge of equine matters, made his own private selections of the winners at Belmont, Aqueduct, Jamaica and Bowie. His dope sheet clicked twice, a cantative Mr. Holm into great emotional excitement—and into an inspiring idea.

The inspiration was his current play, "Three Men On a Horse," has as its hero just such an amateur doer. Mr. Holm's side train rides will thus bring him at least $100,000 in profits before the play's run is over.

The soil on your bungalow lawn may look like plain dirt, but if you dig hard enough you may one day strike oil.

LEGAL LAMENT—A few days ago this sympathetic columnist wrote a squib full of pathos about the trials and tribulations that go with entrance into the public spotlight, citing the lawsuits which had descended on the heads of Eddie Cantor and several other theatrical stars. Hardly had our comments gone to the composing room when we popped a couple of new events to add to our woe-filled dirge.

Jimmy Durante and Reinold Werrenrath are the latest addition to the mournful tale. Morton A. Milman is badgering Schmozzola for a rake-off on the $50,000 he claims the comedian earned last year for a twenty-four week radio engagement. Milman says a commission is due him for his services as personal manager, and he's going to fight for it no matter how "mortified" the long-suffering one becomes.

Werrenrath's sorrows concern the trust fund he set up for his thief!," she said, but she did not look at Don.

Jarred finished the wine in his glass and beckoned for a waiter. He ordered another bottle, then turned to Don.

"I gave instructions to Sloan to drop the matter against you," "That was fine of you," Don said.

"You mentioned Shanghai. Going out there?" Jarred asked carelessly.

"If I can get an assignment," said Don. Then, watching Jarred, he added, "Or unless the Leader decides to take me back."

"I see," said Jarred, and said no more.

THEY LEFT the cafe a half hour later. Don took his leave at the curb. His parting with Mary was casual, as though they expected to see each other soon again, but Mary knew that this was goodbye. Why he had made Jarred think he was uncertain about leaving, she could not understand, for she felt sure he really meant to go away.

Jarred was very attentive on the way home. He hummed a bit of a Spanish tune and held Mary's hand. They found Aunt Nettie still up. She was sitting in the living room, busy with some knitting.

Mary kissed her aunt's cheek and sat on the arm of her chair. "Still keeping an eye on Jarred and me?" she teased.

"You two get in at a decent hour," Aunt Nettie conceded. "I'm glad some of the younger generation has a little propriety left."

"Let's turn in," Mary suggested. "I'm dead after shopping with Sarah."

"That human parrot?" Aunt Nettie snapped. "I don't wonder!"

Mary rose and held out her hand to her aunt.

"I'll smoke a cigaret before turning in," Jarred said.

Mary gave him a warm smile, and he took both of her hands in his. "Good night, dear," he said.

HE WAITED until Mary and Aunt Nettie were safely upstairs; then he crossed to the library and opened the door. Carmie was seated at her typewriter.

"Hello, Jar. Fetch me a drink," she said over her shoulder. "He poured two glasses of brandy, crossed to her, and handed her one. He lifted his glass.

"Here's to the Marsh-Dean alliance. And to the returned will." "How did it get back?" asked Carmie.

"Slick Jim got it—trailed Mary and snatched her purse. She must have had it all along."

"What about Don Harvey?" Carmie's eyes bored into Jarred's. "Says he's off to Shanghai."

Jarred grinned. "Broken heart and all that stuff."

"I'm not so sure about that boy. I had a tip today that he was hotter than we think. He has been cabling Rio and might be getting something."

"How could he get anything?" Jarred's smile had changed to a scowl.

"I know this—I'm going to make sure that Don Harvey takes that trip to Shanghai, or else to some other distant port!" Carmie's eyes were hard as glass as she spoke.

"Now don't get that way. Everything is going easy," Jarred said quickly. He was afraid of Carmie when she was in her present mood.

"I'm seeing that everything runs smooth!" she snapped. "For what I have put up with, I aim to get well paid."

"Aw, give me a kiss," Jarred said, and tried to pull her up into his arms.

"Cut it!" Carmie said curtly. "I'm getting a date with Don Harvey right now!"

complaining at every opportunity, made it a point to bowl out the conductors and motormen for every conceivable type of real and fancied injury, and all in all saw to it that a first-class grouch developed in the oppressed hearts of the long suffering transit employees.

The trolley men as a result developed an implacable hatred for all womankind. They had daily warning of the horrible fate that was in store for them if they made the matrimonial plunge, and few of them were foolhardy enough to ignore the ominous rumblings of future strife.

TRY A CLASSIFIED IN THE RECORD-HERALD FOR RESULTS

Mary Dean is trapped by her uncle's will, which divides his fortune between her and her younger brother and sister, Jerry and Ann, only on condition that Mary marries Jarred Marsh, a young man from South America.

Mary has never seen until he arrives for the reading of the will. She agrees to marry him for the sake of Jerry and Ann, unaware that Jarred and Carmie De Loos, secretary in the Dean home, are confederates in a plot to get hold of the money. But Don Harvey, newspaper reporter, who is in love with Mary, suspects something wrong and steals the will, later planting it on Mary. Jarred puts the police on his trail. When Don appears at a night club where Jarred and Mary are dining, Mary begs him to leave, thinking that Jarred is going to have him arrested.

CHAPTER XIX
DON watched Mary as she struggled to be calm. He had been acting like a cad, he suddenly decided. Mary would do as she thought right and he was only making it hard for her. After all, Jarred was not such a bad sort. All he had against the man was a hunch.

He decided, in that moment, to get out—to go as far away as he could—to China, the Orient—any far place.

"I've been a fool, Mary," he said simply. "I made all this trouble on a hunch and because my aunt was hurt at being out. Please forgive me. I'll clear out now—go away."

"Where are you going?" Mary asked quickly.

"Oh, I don't know. I've been offered an assignment to do a series on Shanghai and the interior of China. Poor men have to work to eat," he smiled.

"But that's on the other side of the world," Mary's voice was small.

"Yes," Mary was silent for a moment. Don on the other side of the world. . . . But she had made her decision. She would go. She would now. She forced a smile and tried to speak lightly.

"You must write and let me know how those careless charms of yours slay the Oriental beauties."

"Perhaps I had better start now, so as not to keep them waiting," Don grinned, and got to his feet.

"Good luck," Mary said, and held out her hand.

As their hands met, Don's eyes darkened for a second.

"Anyway, a poor tramp could not marry an heiress," he said softly.

"HEY! You can't run off like this," Jarred had come up behind them. He was smiling and seemed pleased about something.

"I have just been asking Mary's pardon for my misdeeds. Now I offer apologies to you."

Don held out his hand. Jarred took it without hesitation.

"But sit down and finish the evening with us," Jarred urged.

Don looked at Mary. She smiled sweetly.

"We'd love to have you, Don," she said.

So Don sat down again. Probably, he thought, Jarred was stringing him along until he could get hold of the police, but he did not care.

Jarred lit a cigaret and inhaled deeply.

PROVISION FOR TRANSIENTS IS NEW PROBLEM

MARTINEZ, April 17.—Relief for destitute migrant Californians, many of whom are already moving into eastern Contra Costa county in anticipation of seasonal employment in fruit orchards and vegetables fields, today presented a serious problem to county authorities after notice had been received from the SERRA that it appeared unlikely that any SERRA aid would be forthcoming this year for such cases.

Last year the SERRA provided surplus products for migrant destitute families and the products were administered and distributed through the county social service department here. However, according to the latest notice there are no surplus products available this year.

As a result Social Service Director Otis Lovelidge met with the board of supervisors and Glen Stout, director of SERRA this week to consider what may become a grave problem.

COUNTY LIMITED

It was explained that under the relief laws of the state the social service department of the county cannot, without having some determination of county responsibility, authorize expenditure of funds for the care of transient families.

The social service laws provide that a person must be a resident of a county for a year before he is eligible to receive relief money.

Inasmuch as many of the migrant destitute families are always traveling it is almost an impossibility to fix county responsibility for their relief. Many cannot tell for whom they worked last, what schools, if any, their children attended, or give other information that would make it possible to identify them with a certain county so that their relief could be charged against that county.

Under present conditions it is expected that many families of fruit pickers may be destitute in this county this year and without any means of support or existence and they will have to be taken care of by some agency.

SEEK SERRA AID

It was understood that following the meeting Stout agreed to take up the matter with his superiors to see if some solution could be reached whereby SERRA aid or administration of the problem might be obtained.

Having his opinion upon the content of the SERRA letter advising counties that no surplus products were available, Stout, however, was apprehensive that SERRA aid could not be secured.

A report from Stout is expected within the next few days.

Annually many hundreds of transients descend on the orchard districts in the eastern end of the county seeking employment and last year the number far exceeded the total that could be employed.

WITNESS FOR GOSDEN SCORED AT DEATH TRIAL

OAKLAND, April 17.—UP.—The prosecution in the case of Louis Gosden, accused of poisoning his wife today introduced a previous statement negating testimony given by Mrs. Emma Bellandi, Sunnyvale.

Mrs. Bellandi, one of the principle witnesses for the defense in its attempt to prove that Laura Gosden committed suicide, told of an operation on Mrs. Gosden's breast.

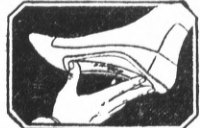

"Laura told me she would commit suicide, if she ever had cancer," Mrs. Bellandi testified. "Once Laura confided to me that she was going to do something about getting away from Louis, I was to leave for Denver, and Laura said if I went she'd do something desperate."

The prosecution, cross-examining the witness, introduced a previous statement made by Mrs. Bellandi to the district attorney's office. It denied that Laura ever had discussed suicide with her and that Mrs. Bellandi admitted suicide could not have been the cause of Mrs. Gosden's death.

Father Figures In The Role Of Son's Prosecutor

MARTINEZ April 17.—If he had known it was his son who was accused of theft of two calves from his Moraga ranch he never would have signed a complaint against him charging grand theft, Manuel Pimentel, father of one of two men on trial before a jury in the courtroom of Superior Judge Anthony Caminetti, Jr., testified today.

James A. Miller and Albert Pimentel are being tried on charges they took two calves from the Pimentel ranch.

District Attorney Francis P. Healey and Deputy District Attorney Rex L. Boyer called Manuel Pimentel as their first witness today. He testified that two calves involved in the case belonged to him, but said he would not have signed a complaint if he had known it was his son the charges were against. He said his son could have had the calves if he had asked for them.

The jury follows:

Mrs. Marguerite Irwin, Richmond; William J. Curnow, Richmond; Mrs. Anna Brichman, Richmond; W. B. Richmond, Richmond; F. J. ## MURDER STORY TOLD JURY BY LITTLE GIRL

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—UP.—Seven-year-old Virginia Jean Carter sat in front of a coroner's jury today, alternately sniffling her pretty pink dress and dabbing tears from her eyes, and gave testimony that is expected to bring murder charges against her mother, Mrs. Gladys Carter.

Mrs. Carter is in custody in a hospital with two bullet wounds in her body, charged with shooting Isabel Walker, pretty Newhall, Calif., schoolteacher, at Placerita Canyon last Saturday.

Little Virginia told how her mother "kept accusing Frances of going out with my dad." She said on the day of the shooting, her mother had "stood in front of Frances, and kept accusing her."

"My dad was in the other room, and he just laughed,"

"Did your mother have a gun?" Coroner Frank Montfort asked.

"Yes. She went over by the bed and got it and pointed it at Frances. She kept accusing Frances before she shot."

Virginia had been held in custody by the sheriff's office since the shooting. Her testimony today was the first description of the affair.

Miss Walker was shot to death at the home of Deputy Sheriff Archie Carter, Virginia's father. Mrs. Carter, who turned the gun on herself and fired twice before Carter could reach her, is still in a critical condition.

Carter, held in custody since the shooting, will be released and murder charges placed against Mrs. Carter. Inspector Norris G. Stensland of the sheriff's office said after the inquest.

UNANIMOUS ACTION

The League Council slammed the door on Germany's early return to Geneva by unanimously adopting the resolution condemning Hitler's military schemes.

The Council's action, prodded by Great Britain, France and Italy over the opposition of smaller powers, was unanimous, Denmark abstaining. Poland reversed herself at the last minute and voted with the rest. The vote was 13 to 9. The approval commits the 57 nations belonging to the League to condemnation of the Reich's lone scuttling of the war treaties.

The social service committee, which has been reading and studying the report on the sterilization cases, prepared by Deputy District Attorney Rex Boyer asked for and was given more time in which to report.

The Pittsburgh graft scandal, which was billed as part of the day's program, failed to materialize. District Attorney Healey said that he was not ready to submit the matter. He was asked to have his recommendations ready by the next meeting, if possible.

Healey is now studying the material submitted to him through Mayor Hugh Donovan of Pittsburgh and gathered by operatives of a detective agency.

After the adjournment of the meeting the committee on public buildings decided to make a visit to the remodeled offices of the sheriff and a majority of the members of the grand jury thought it a good idea to get a stant on what the sheriff had done along that line so decided to go along.

The comment was highly favorable and many words of praise were uttered for the systematic way the office is run and the many improvements put into effect which have resulted in business efficiency and the saving of much money to the taxpayers.

was, as described by its crew and directors "a routine flight."

CARRIED MAIL

Exactly on schedule the huge ship lifted from the water off Alameda airport and winged away on the flight to blaze the trail for air mail and passenger service first to Hawaii, and finally to China.

It carried 10,000 pieces of mail specially dispatched by collectors on the historic flight, and tons of equipment for the Kaneohe bay base to be established in Honolulu for the trans-Pacific service.

SECOND BASE

Word of the landing was flashed to the steamer North Haven at Midway Island, where another base is being established for the California to China service.

Puim Brothers Take Lease On City Hall Garage

The Puim Brothers—four of them—have leased the City Hall Garage, 2325 Macdonald avenue, and will make a bid through thorough repair work at reasonable prices, to secure their share of patronage from motorists.

Several years ago the boys established a repair shop here and in a short time built up quite an extensive business. Inability to negotiate a satisfactory lease on the premises they were occupying forced them to seek other fields and since then they have operated garages at Oakland and Marysville.

With a 16-year residence here, and consequently a wide acquaintance, they feel certain that it will not be long until they will build up a business that will test the capacity of the four to handle.

They will also deal in gasoline and auto accessories and will handle auto storage.

Irvington Man Kills Himself

IRVINGTON, April 17.—James P. Robinson, 60, who lives on the highway between here and Lincoln, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the head with a shot gun. Deputy Coroner John H. Lowman reported today.

The man's body was found lying on the floor of a wood-shed at the rear of his home by his wife, Mrs. Frances Robinson, who went to investigate the shot. She told officers that Robinson, who was employed by the Standard Oil Company at San Jose, had been drinking heavily during the past week.

A note found in Robinson's coat was partly illegible. It indicated that he wanted his death to appear as "accidental" for the sake of his son, James, 10. The body was removed to the Berke-Mortuary here.

Now Mrs. Shannon has placed her three children in custody of her husband and is instituting divorce proceedings against De Barril so that she can marry Shannon for the third time.

Karpis Bought Machine In S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—UP—Federal officers today disclosed that Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1, bought an automobile in San Francisco a little more than a year ago. They thought it likely that the car was used in the $200,000 Bremer kidnapping, January 17, 1934.

H. H. McPike, U. S. district attorney said that this was the first definite corroboration of the "eyewitness" theory that Karpis and two other members of his gang had visited the far west.

They were known to have been in Reno in March and April of last year. Authorities also suspect that the Karpis gang has had some of the same contacts in Nevada as the George (Baby Face) Nelson gang.

Azusa recalled that Nelson also bought an automobile here and that both machines were kept in Frank Cochran's Reno garage. Cochran was recently convicted of conspiracy to harbor Nelson.
